Matching lifestyles with home
technology systems

An aging society faces many challenges, but one of the biggest is to continue to live in the home of your choice safely and independently as you get older. If a senior has an adult child, relative or friend who can help, it makes living at home much easier as they age. However, that may not always be possible.

Fortunately, Intelli Home Systems can help seniors remain in their homes as they age by providing an easy to use, technologically advanced system that enables loved ones and friends to monitor senior's activities throughout the day, and receive information on their activities via emails or text messaging.

Imagine how much better you will feel if you know that Mom has "gotten out of bed and opened the medicine cabinet" or Dad "went into the garage" or "opened the refrigerator."

Intelli Home Systems' "Aging in Place" Monitoring Program

With our innovative system, we establish a monitoring network throughout the home that provides information on a parent's activities throughout the day. Our system is based on sensors that let a child know when their parent does certain activities throughout the day, such as getting out of bed, opening a medicine cabinet in the bathroom or sitting in their favorite chair. By using electronic sensors and door/drawer contacts, our system knows when these sensors are activated, and can automatically send an email or text to a child to help them monitor their parent's activities.

System Also Provides 24-hour Emergency Monitoring

Our assistive technology system can take monitoring an aging parent even further by providing emergency panic buttons in the shower and a panic pendant Mom and Dad can wear in the event they fall or have a medical emergency. One push of a button will send an emergency email or text to you 24 hours a day.

We can even provide video camera monitoring that enables a loved one or friend to monitor a senior's activities by displaying the camera images on your computer at work or at home, or via your Smartphone.

Make Your Life Easier with Our Other Advanced Technology

In addition to our “Aging in Place” monitoring program, we provide a variety of other home technology services that fit today’s lifestyles including:
